WILL FORM NEW LABOR BODY

WILL APPEAL DIRECT WITH UNIONS FOR GEN. STRIKE

Notwithstanding that the Contra Labor Council of San Francisco refused to aid the Building Trades Council in calling a general strike in the bay section as a protest against the American plan, the conference committee of the building trades yesterday appointed a committee of twenty to make a direct appeal to all labor unions. A new labor council, embracing the entire bay district, is to be formed.

Efforts will be made to have all unions of both councils assemble this week so a strike vote can be taken by the first of August.

Plans for a mass meeting of members of all unions to be held on August 7 were placed in the hands of the executive committee of the general conference committee yesterday.

The purpose of the mass meeting, according to James B. Dewar, its sponsor, is to "bring all working men together on common ground and explain the problems facing organized labor."

Letters of instructions for voting and explanation of the proposed general strike were mailed yesterday morning to affiliated unions by the Building Trades Council. The instructions urge the unions to consider carefully the proposal to strike, and vote as soon as the matter can be placed before the membership.

Engineers Planning Bridge Over Slide at Hanna Hill

The California Highway Commission are preparing to put a shelf bridge across the big slide on Hanna Hill, near Crockett, and keep the road open along the present right of way all winter.

This information is official. The funds have been appropriated for the work, and the necessary material ordered. It is probable that the construction work will be commenced next week.

The plan is to rest a shelf bridge on the line of the present road on one side, supporting the width of the bridge with braces along its course and with long piles down at either end of the slide, which is not believed by the engineers to be very wide as to three underground part actually in motion.

Both Chief Engineer Fletcher of the highway commission and Acting District Engineer Skeggs are said to be pledged to keep the road open this coming winter, so that Crockett shall not be cut off from direct communication with the outside world.

SHOTS TAKEN AT PROWLER EARLY HOUR ON SATURDAY

Residents in the neighborhood of Eleventh street and Bissell avenue were startled from their sleep by several shots early yesterday morning, and feared for a time that a serious disturbance had broken loose.

Mrs. J. H. Smith of 250 Eleventh street, reported to the police that the Smith home and the other houses along Eleventh street.

The shots were said to have been fired by men folks of the neighborhood, who meant more to try to scare off the marauders than to hit them. At any rate, the shadowy shapes moving about in the darkness took themselves off in great haste.

When the police arrived there was no trace of the supposed miscreants and a diligent search failed to bring to light anything more concerning them.

OFFICIAL PAPER CITY OF RICHMOND

THINKOGRAPHS by F. J. HULANISKI

SUNDAY MORNING CHATS

We have just been reading that one of the good things the Rotary Club seeks to do is to teach men to take an interest in their work and business, to make a pleasure of it instead of a drudge, and if it is such they cannot do that, to get into some other work or business. We have been preaching that for years in a different way, stating that discontent was the breeder of nearly all the ills mankind suffers from and complains of, and the way to cure that was to get busy and keep busy, at work that was interesting, and do enough of it each day to make a good night's rest necessary and welcome. That, coupled with the golden rule, is the philosophy of life, and one of the aims of the Rotary Club succeeds in getting that kind of need it will have performed a good mission and not have lived in vain. We don't know a Rotary club from a stuffed club, but claim to know wholesome doctrine, common sense and good philosophy. Contentment is better than great riches and a bare liver, and without it life is a howling blank with everything on the blink. Of course, young folks want their "thing," which is only natural, but we can inform them authoritatively that while they can get more or less fun and jazz out of it, there is no contentment in that sort of thing, but just the contrary. We have scattered more or less seed in nearly every nook and corner of America, looking for contentment, and couldn't find it, it isn't there. There is really nothing new under the sun, and after hitting all the high places and sampling all the wares, the only thing one gets out of it in the end is a dark brown face and a "blawzy" head that nothing but calumet and a week's rest and sleep can alleviate. The one who said that man is not contented outside the sound of his own dinner horn told a great truth. The farther away you get and the more you see and mingle with high life, and the more money you have and the more of it you scatter around and burn up, the more discontented you are, and finally, when world-weary and tired of it all, realizing the hollow sham of people and outward appearances, you return to the sound of that old dinner horn, there you find the contentment right where you left it because you did not realize that it was there. And then you find at last the true philosophy and fact that ham and eggs and corn beef and cabbage beat petit-fours a mile, and that a hard day's work is something you are interested in, reinforced by a good night's sleep earned by the work, brings with it a sweet and abiding contentment that the white lights never glimmer on and the plumed bird of folly never roosts upon.

Business is dull. It is no duller in Richmond than it is everywhere else, and not so bad as in some places, but it is on the blink all over. A thousand men have lost their jobs here and don't know where they are at, for when they go elsewhere to look for work they find the same condition. Naturally then, the constant topic of conversation is the times, the unemployment of five million men, and the why's and wherefores of it. Why is it? The answer one hears is always the same war and war conditions. But the war has been over for three years, the country has had big crops, there is no end of money in the country, everybody is willing to work and the world wants what they can produce, yet they are not producing. In France there are but fifty thousand idle men, while in our country there are five millions. How comes this? We cannot answer, but have a suspicion that our Congress and Senate both need a thorough dinging out, of both Republicans and Democrats, and especially of those that have been there a long while. President Harding is evidently a good man, and wants to do the right thing by all of us, and so do his advisors, but there can be but little doubt but what "Big Business" owns and controls enough Congressmen and Senators to get most any kind of legislation it wants, and back most any legislation it does not want, and this in our humble judgment, has more to do with these adverse times than war or war conditions. The very wealthy men of the nation and the big corporations and trusts are grabbing more and more of the money and the property of the country every year and month, while the average every day citizen has not, as a rule, enough money in bank to pay for a first class funeral. A first class funeral, including tombstone, will cost about $500. Have you got that much laid by in the bank? Maybe you have, but the average man has not, nor the half of it. We have just been reading some figures showing what some of the big corporations cleaned up in the past year. The United States Steel, hundreds of millions; the packing trusts, hundreds of millions; Standard Oil of New Jersey, hundreds of millions; DuPont Powder, more hundreds of millions; and so on down the line, and scores of them. In the meantime a thousand men are idle in Richmond five thousand are idle in Oakland, ten thousand are idle in San Francisco, and five millions in the United States. Something wrong somewhere, and it is not Denmark that is rotten this time. The red back cost are burning up money, a la Stalin, maintaining harems and living out white lights with high-power speed cars, while a whole lot of us fellows have to get Ludwig to put that pound of liver down on the book. The high up gentlemen of the billionaire class back in New York know more about high finances and economies than we chaps out here do, so we have to sort of coast around and ask questions and seek information as to these things. We work in the oil works and at the factories and we know something about how to sling brick and mortar, nail on boards, and how to blow in the banghole of the furnace to make it whoop up on gasoline for Mr. Morgan's and Mr. Rockefeller's touring cars and limousines, and we know how to spread plaster so it won't fall down when the wife needs because our pay checks are not big enough to pay the grocery bill, but we don't say how comes it that a hundred or so have a billion apiece while the rest of us have four bits, and five million of us don't know where we are going to sleep tonight. That is where our education is lacking. We have oil and grime on our Can't-Bust-Em's, and using no perfume we do not smell as sweet as the St. J. mans, the Loeb's, the Vanderbilts, the Goulds or the "400," but it does seem as though we ought to be given the blessed privilege of working for an honest living to support our families. Let us pray today that the Administration will collect that ten billion Allied debt and put the millions of idle to work irrigating the desert places at a living wage.

A cartoon shows a chap fishing in an irrigating ditch; back of him is a high wall running around an asylum, and one of the nut inmates sticks his head up over the wall and says: "Hey, you, there hasn't no fish in that ditch—come on inside!" The moral is that there are more of 'em on the outside than inside, and that is more than half true. Another evidence of it comes in our mail, asking publicity for a prophesy from an individual back east named Edwards. He says that Jesus is coming again, and fixes the exact date, right down to the hour and minute. In August the heavens are to be on fire; agony of hell; death everywhere; all business ends; rivers dry up; crops destroyed; three days darkness; earthquakes everywhere; resurrection of saints; devil appears on earth. This is about enough for one day, as most of us will admit, so according to Mr. Edwards' pamphlet, there will be a hell in startling events for three days, then, on August 7th, there will be forty days warning, and the Temple will be rebuilt at Jerusalem. It does not state, however, after everybody and everything has been destroyed on or about the 4th, who is going to rebuild the Temple on the 7th. Maybe Mr. Edwards is going to do it! There are 53 pages of drivel just like the above in the pamphlet, and it is all figured down to the day and minute (New York time, he says), so there will be no excuse for you not knowing just when these fireworks begin. There is one thing out of two that ought to happen, and happen quick either we should all be getting very busy making ascension robes, or else another padded cell should be swept out for the occupancy of another unfortunate with more wheels in his cracked dome than was needed in the hundred million dollars worth of airplanes that Uncle Sam started to make during the war and didn't. We can see where we have got to buy two or three more waste baskets.

Teeth Like Pearls In Healthy Gums

"Ukle," another great find, manufactured by Dr. McCord and G. L. Bowers, both of whom have spent many years of scientific study and research in perfecting this discovery, used constantly makes the teeth like a double row of pearls set in healthy gums.

"Ukle," (don't forget the name, UKLE,) is a reliable and soothing Pyorrhea relief in the form of a delightful tooth powder. Ukle contains no acid and no gritty substance, and so cannot scratch nor mar the enamel of the teeth. Ukle is like NO other tooth powder or remedy in the world. Ukle not only relieves Pyorrhea at once, but marvellously heals bleeding gums.

Ukle is salutary, and leaves the mouth, teeth and gums in perfect condition. UKLE—diseased gums cry for it, Good Teeth Die for it—IF NOT USED.

UKLE—Ask for it at La Moine Drug Co., or send for it to Dr. McCord Laboratory, Hayward, Cal.—Adv.

War Department to Issue New Belts For Service Men

With the War Department's order restoring the Sam Brown belt for commissioned officers, prices of this article of equipment, which had been a drag on the market, immediately began to soar skywards, and all sorts of nondescript belts began to make their appearance.

Major General H. L. Rogers, the quartermaster general of the army, has decided to issue a standard belt at a moderate price, and has ordered that several patterns be made up with a view to ultimately adopting one of them for the use of officers.

It is the intention to devise a belt which will combine both service and dress features, and to this end the Clothing and Equipage branch have sent Louis Heuer, leather and equipment expert, of the quartermaster general's office at Jeffersonville, Ind., to superintend the manufacture of several different types, one of which will be adopted as the standard for all.

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS OF DEMOCRACY
BY IRVING BACHELLER
COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.
CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the country of the Sagamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a young man named Biggs, who also decides to go to the Sagamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanying the Traylor. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylor's first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter, Bim, 16 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his home. Led by Jack Armstrong, pioneers attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Ray McNeil, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNeil threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNeil and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylor's Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI.—Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from their owner, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Bim Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Bim's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Bim confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

CHAPTER IX.—Biggs comes back to the village and he and Bim elope. Harry learns of it on his way home from the "war." Lincoln's action and philosophy sustain him in his grief.

CHAPTER X.—Lincoln, defeated in his candidacy for the legislature, forms a partnership with "Old" Henry in the grocery business. Biggs sends a gang to turn Traylor's house, but the New Salem men are warned and the raiders worsted.

CHAPTER XI.—Lincoln, now postmaster, decides to run again for the legislature. Ann Rutledge is openly in love with John McNeil. He leaves for his home in the East, promising to return soon and marry Ann. Lincoln accepts his defeat manfully. No word coming from McNeil, Ann confesses to Abe that his real name is McNamee, and he fears that he will not return. Lincoln in his deep love endeavors to reassure her, though he shares her misgivings. Lincoln wins his seat in the legislature.

He found the house in a condition of panic. Biggs and his helper had discovered the mulatto and his wife hiding in the barn. The negroes and the children were crying. Mrs. Brimstead met Harry outside the door.

"What are we to do?" she asked, tearfully.

"Just keep cool," said Harry. "Father Traylor and Mr. Peasley will be here soon."

Biggs and his companion came out of the door with Brimstead.

"We will take the niggers to the river and put them on a boat," Biggs was saying.

His face and shirt and bosom were smeared with blood. He asked Mrs. Brimstead for a basin of water and a towel. The good woman took him to the washstand and supplied his needs.

In a few moments Samson and Peasley arrived.

"Well, you've found them, have you?" Peasley asked.

"They were here, as I thought," said Biggs.

"Well, the justice says we must surrender the negroes and take them to the nearest landing for you. We've come to do it."

"It's better treatment than I expected," Biggs answered.

"You'll find that we have a good deal of respect for the law," said Peasley.

Biggs and his friend went to the barn for their horses. The others conferred a moment with the two slaves and Mrs. Brimstead. Then the latter went out into the garden for a woman in a sunbonnet who was working with a hoe some fifteen rods from the house. Mrs. Brimstead seemed to be conveying a message to the woman by signs. Evidently, the latter was deaf and dumb.

"That is the third slave," Brimstead whispered. "I don't believe they'll discover her."

Soon Peasley and Samson got into the wagon with the negroes and drove away, followed by the two horsemen. In a little village on the river they stopped at a low frame house. A woman came to the door.

"Is Freeman Collar here?" Peasley demanded.

"He is back in the garden," the woman answered.

"Please ask him to come here."

In a moment Collar came around the house with a hoe on his shoulder.

"Good morning, Mr. Constable," said Peasley. "This is Eliphalet Biggs of St. Louis, and here is a warrant for his arrest."

"Here is a Warrant for His Arrest."

remind you that it is a grave offense and likely to lead to your confinement for a term of years.

"Well, by G—," Biggs shouted, in anger. "You suckers will have some traveling to do before you arrest me."

He struck the spurs in his horse and galloped away, followed by his servant. Samson roared with laughter.

"Now, Collar, get up on your horse and hurry 'em along, but don't catch up with 'em if you can help it," said Peasley. "We've got them on the run now."

When the constable had gone, Peasley said to Samson: "We'll drop these slaves at Nate Haskell's door. He'll take care of 'em until dark and start 'em on the north road. Late in the evening I'll pick 'em up and get 'em out of this part of the country."

Meanwhile Brimstead and Harry had stood for a moment in the doorway of the former, watching the party on its way up the road. Brimstead blew out his breath and said in a low tone:

"Say, I'll tell ye, I ain't had so much excitement since Samson Traylor rode into Fleg valley. The women need a chance to wash their faces and slick up a little. Let's you and me go back to the creek and go in swimming; an' look the farm over."

"What become of the third nigger?" Harry asked.

"She went out in the field in a sunbonnet an' went to work with a hoe and they didn't discover her," said Brimstead.

They had their swim in the creek and got back to the house at dinner time. Samson had returned and, as they sat down at the table Harry asked: "What have you done with the third slave?"

"She's been upstairs, getting washed and dressed," said Mrs. Brimstead.

As she spoke, the stairway door opened and Bim entered the room—in a silk gown and slippers. Sorrow had put its mark upon her face, but had not extinguished her beauty. All rose from the table. Harry walked toward her. She advanced to meet him. Face to face, they stopped and looked into each other's eyes. The moment-long desired, the moment endered and sublimated by the dreams of both, the moment toward which their thoughts had been wont to hasten, after the cares of the day, like brooks coming down from the mountains, had arrived suddenly. She was in a way prepared for it. She had taken thought of what she would do and say. He had not. Still it made no difference. Quickly they fell into each other's embrace, and the depth of their feeling was as true as when we read in the diary of the rugged and rather stoical Samson that no witness of the scene spoke or moved "until I turned my back upon it for shame of my tears."

Soon Bim came and kissed Samson's cheek and said:

SUMMER CARE OF HEATERS

There is danger of rust when a stove stands unused for some time. Smokepipes should be taken down in the spring, cleaned, and stored in a dry place. The doors should be left open to keep the interior dry. A lump of unslacked lime on the grate will collect the moisture and thus prevent rust. Leave the boiler of a steam or hotwater heater filled with water up to the safety valve, during the summer.

EGGS IN TOMATO SAUCE IS A GOOD SUPPER DISH

Eggs are at their cheapest now and new and appetizing ways of preparing them add variety to the menu. Here is a recipe recommended:

2 cups tomato pulp and juice (put through a sieve).
8 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons flour.

1/4 teaspoon celery salt.
1/4 teaspoon pepper.
1 1/2 teaspoons salt.

Make a sauce of the ingredients. Put one-half of the sauce in a baking dish, break six eggs, one at a time, into a saucer and slide each egg into the sauce, taking care not to break the yolk. Cover with the remaining sauce and sprinkle three tablespoons of grated cheese over the top. Put in the oven and bake until the eggs are set. Serve hot on toasted bread or with boiled rice.

THROAT TROUBLE CURED

Oakland, Nov. 1, 1920. To whom it May Concern:

I suffered from throat trouble for 15 years, during which time I could neither eat nor swallow without pain. I became very weak and was unable to work for months. I had numerous doctors and then tried a Throat specialist, who told me that my trouble was due to the blood. He advised me to take blood medicine. Thereupon my brother, who had been cured of Stomach Trouble by the FONG WAN HERBS, urged me to try them. After drinking the herbs for 15 weeks, I felt entirely well. I have since gained 25 pounds. It is 10 months since I took the herbs, and I am now giving this testimonial to let the public know that any sufferer should try the FONG WAN HERBS. I am a watchman for the California Food Specialties Co.

Big Orpheum Act on the Program at Theater Today

A big Orpheum act, one which is now playing in San Francisco, will head the bill at the Richmond T. & D. Theater on Sunday. Manager Dan Reardon had an opportunity to secure the act, which is available only because the Oakland Orpheum has closed for the summer and although it is much more expensive than the ordinary vaudeville attraction, he decided to give his patrons some real big time stuff. Harry and Nancy Cavena, in the "Free Exhibition," are the headliners. One of the San Francisco papers says of them: "Harry and Nancy Cavena, who close the show bring an act of unusual character. Harry climbs into a barrel and walks along a tight wire, after proving himself boneless by the way in which he ties himself into knots during the earlier part of the performance."

Other acts on the bill are Connie and Albert in a bit of fun called "Back to School Days." Arnold and Taylor will be seen in four minutes of comedy entitled "Put Out."

Sadie Sherman is a singing and talking comedian who will add more fun to the bill.

Owen Moore in "A Divorce of Convenience," is the film attraction on the bill.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Truthfully

We believe so. Some firms to-day are offering "hair-raising" specials; even below cost. Does it sound possible that they can do it? Can they sell below cost without a catch someplace? Its all to fool the public but it does not pay.

After all, it pays better to buy where you get A-1 Quality, A-1 Service and everything at the lowest possible price. All these are found at
